BoatSafe Information Bulletin - 016

BoatSafe Workbook as theory training tool

Purpose

This BoatSafe Information Bulletin outlines the use of the BoatSafe Workbook as a theory training tool only and not a substitute for the approved methods that must be delivered by all BTPs and undertaken by all students.

Requirements

Situation

Section 6.8 of the BoatSafe Business Rules states that a BTO must ensure content complies with the BoatSafe RMDL Competency Standard and BoatSafe PWCL Competency Standard when delivering a BoatSafe course.

The BoatSafe RMDL Competency Standard and BoatSafe PWCL Competency Standard outline the skills, knowledge and assessment requirements a candidate must attain to obtain a RMDL or PWCL to operate certain powered recreational vessels in Queensland.

Competency Standard requirements

The RMDL and PWCL Competency Standards outline what must be included in the training of each unit, as well as resource requirements that are to be available at a minimum. All BTOs must ensure that their training programs include these requirements, that minimum resource requirements are met and that BTPs are carrying out theory training in accordance with these requirements.

Section 15 of the BoatSafe Business Rules allows for alternative training tools or methods such as online delivery for theory components of the standards. Such alternative tools or methods must be approved by the department prior to their use.

While the BoatSafe Workbook may be a useful tool in preparing students for the BoatSafe course, the use of only the BoatSafe Workbook, as an online training tool or as a substitute in full or as part of an approved BoatSafe training and assessment method is not acceptable. The BoatSafe Workbook must not be used as a substitute for in-class theory training or an online training package.

Those BTOs with BTPs found to be not training students in theory components of the course appropriately in all areas before assessing them using the CATs will be issued with a show cause notice to have their authority suspended or cancelled.
