Bruce Highway update: Gairloch and Seymour River route reopening

The Department of Transport and Main Roads (TMR) can advise the Bruce Highway is reopening across the Seymour River at Gairloch, north of Ingham.

This follows waters receding at Gairloch and the Seymour River, allowing key freight vehicles to move through the area once again.

Northbound freight is already moving, with southbound freight to follow soon -before the roads reopen to the general public.

Queensland Police Service (QPS) is on-site managing traffic, and TMR urges motorists to follow all signage and directions from QPS.

No load restrictions are currently in place, and speed limits will be enforced by QPS.

Motorists are advised there may be delays over the next few days as traffic flow resumes. TMR thanks the public for their patience.

Motorists are urged to visit www.qldtraffic.qld.gov.au for all traffic alerts, road closures and condition updates for major roads in Queensland. Motorists can also download the QLDTraffic app or call 13 19 40.
